When we stopped limiting its reasoning, how long did the model actually think?